

From measured kinematics to a mechanically admissible field

DIC provides the observation; the FE solve enforces equilibrium. Local parameters reproduce spatial organization and are not intrinsic grain properties.